such improper conduct as promptly as possible. Additionally, a Compliance web-based reporting system is operated by a third-party vendor and is available 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

Our Code of Conduct is designed to provide the basic principles to support our people in working to the best of their abilities, while maintaining the trust and solid reputation we have built. All employees are required to complete mandatory online training on our Code of Conduct.

Suppliers

We rely on all our suppliers to meet the disclosure requirements under the UK's Modern Slavery Act 2015 and to undertake the necessary due diligence to ensure that there is no modern slavery or human trafficking in their operations and supply chains. Liberty Global's Responsible Procurement and Supply Chain Principles (RPSCP) outline what we expect from our suppliers and our commitment to protect human rights. Our principles ensure that we are being explicit in our expectations relating to labour.

The key components of our RPSCP relating to the Modern Slavery Act include: child labour, forced labour, discrimination, working hours and wages, freedom of association and health and safety.

All suppliers are expected to comply with all applicable local and international laws and regulations regarding the environment, health and safety and employment, and including the ILO Core Conventions on Labour Standards and the Universal Declaration of Human Rights.

Due Diligence

Supplier assessments and monitoring

The risk of slavery and human trafficking in our business sits predominantly in our supply chain. We use global supply chain assessment specialist EcoVadis to benchmark top suppliers against 21 environmental, social and ethical criteria. Such criteria are based on a number of international standards including the UN Global Compact Principles, the International Labour Organization (ILO) conventions, the Global Reporting Initiative (GRI), the ISO 26000 standard and the Ceres principles. Suppliers are required to provide evidence of their environmental, social and ethical activities.

Once each supplier is assessed, the EcoVadis platform provides a scorecard against such criteria, enabling Liberty Global to evaluate the performance and risk associated with each supplier.

With regard to human rights issues, several human rights indicators are being monitored within the EcoVadis platform, including: working conditions, discrimination, labour relations, child & forced labour, freedom of association, human rights issues and health & safety standards.

Supplier corrective actions and continuous improvement

We regularly monitor supply chain compliance risk and if a supplier assessment scorecard shows, or it subsequently transpires, that a new or existing supplier is not adhering to our RPSCP, Liberty Global will seek to work with them to address such non-adherence through a mutually agreed corrective action plan.

In 2022, a total of 651 improvement actions were issued to 36 suppliers, 199 actions out of the 651 were focused on improving policies and processes related to monitoring of labour and human rights.

Training

Our procurement teams play an important role in ensuring that our suppliers participate in, and comply with, our on-going assessment program. We deliver annual Responsible Procurement training to create internal understanding of our responsible procurement and supply chain approach which includes information on Modern Slavery, and our approach. In 2023, we are launching a series of Sustainable Procurement trainings, which include specialized trainings on the EcoVadis Platform. The trainings are available to all procurement colleagues through a procurement sharing platform.

Additionally, within the Code of Conduct, we highlight to our employees the expectations we have of our suppliers and that we work with our suppliers to assess their risk and performance on environmental, social and ethical activities, including human rights and labour.
